Locked-Up Potash. About two miles northeast of Superior, Wyoming, are the Leucite hills, which are made up largely of igneous rocks in the form of volcanic necks, sheets intruded into the stratified rocks, and dikes cutting across the sedimentary strata. Associated with these intrusive rocks are volcanic cones and lava flows. These rocks have long been objects of scientific interest because of their unusual character. Lately they have attracted additional interest by reason of the potash-rich mineral, leucite, they contain, which may be found for extracting the potash cheaply. It has been estimated that the igneous rock of the Leucite hills contains more than 197,000,000 tons of potash.—Bulletin 612, U. S. Geological Survey. 25-4

The city of Ardmore to be obliged to accept and pay for the lights on said white way for a period of ten years.

No person shall be entitled to vote on said proposition except he be in all respects a qualified elector residing within the corporate limits of said city. In case a majority of said qualified electors who shall vote on said proposition at said election shall vote in favor thereof, the Board of Commissioners of the city of Ardmore will grant said franchise and enter into said contract and not otherwise.
